The Fuehrer's Son is Stalin

A Novel By

Emil Malak

Date: April 20, 1997

Story Background by Emil Malak

1. End of 1945, just after the defeat of Germany, a team of ex-Nazi high-ranking generals and politicians who have hidden away over 5 billion dollars in gold reserves planned their escape with their families away from Europe to a place where no one can get to.
2. South America off Venezuela, they managed to buy a couple of islands. They had enough money and financial resources to bribe politicians and change all their names and passports and identity.
3. They build up a village of around three thousand of their families. They had their own schooling, libraries, hospitals and one small university.
4. One of their main rule was never to travel to the mainland and no mention of Hitler and the history of Germany between the year 1910 to 1945 or the Soviet Union and the Stalin era.
5. They had their own rules and regulations. Enough money to build a typical German village with all its facilities. On one island, they lived and co-existed in typical German fashion, on the second island, they built a large laboratory where they had half a dozen scientists experimenting.
6. It's now 20 years later - 1965. The village has grown in numbers. Everyone worked hard. They had various duties and responsibilities and as a German way dictated, they obeyed the rules and carried it out to the letter of the word.

7. The scientists on the other island had managed to come up with a discovery that they have tried on a sheep called "Holi". And through all the DNA experiments they carried out in the past 20 years, they created an identical sheep by implanting a DNA cell into an embryo on another sheep. The pregnancy occurred and now they have an identical sheep in looks to the one they took the DNA from. This was a great discovery.
8. A meeting was held by the hierarchies of the village and the leader asked the top scientist the following; "Can you do the same with humans?" Yes, I believe it will be successful.
9. We have frozen a part of Hitler's breasts before he had to remove some glands under his arms. We still have these cells frozen in the laboratory, is that so? The scientist answered, yes sir. Then the leader goes on and says "Can we clone Hitler?" The scientist answered, yes sir. We can use the same cells and the same method. We just need a mother to carry the egg and eventually the baby.
10. I am sure we have a few women in mind to apply this procedure. We form a committee who will make all the decisions and in twelve months maximum, I will be honored to see the creation of our Furher, Hitler the baby.
11. Twelve months later, Hitler the baby arrives. It is made as a rule in the village, that no one is to know that this baby is Hitler and the background of his history. They have already been denied any knowledge of Germany between 1910 and 1945.
12. The baby grows up to become a man thirty years later. He's now a teacher in the village. We will develop in the novel now he grows up and how he acts and applies it to his teachings.

13. It's mid 1980s. Russia and its eastern communist block countries are in turmoil. Communism has failed and Mikail Gorbachev declared Perestrokia and frees all the eastern blocks from the Mother Russia. Its chaos everywhere in Russia.
14. A group of high-ranking generals and politicians who have managed to put away 10 billion dollars US in gold did not agree with Perestrokia. They believed they were Russians and this will destroy what they loved and that was power under communism.
15. They make contact with the German leader in the village on the island of Venezuela. He invites them and their families to come and live nearby on a third island that they could purchase easily if they paid the right people within the Venezuelan government.
16. The Russians move to the island and manage to dismantle the whole nuclear missile arms factory, which can be fully operational and has a long range. It can reach Europe or America. The Russians settle into the village with the help from their German friends. There are about 1000 in number and they did exactly the same in building their own community as the Germans before them.
17. They also managed to take with them the frozen part of Stalin's boy who was their hero. Through various discussions with the German leader, they decided the following:
 - a) Now they have seen Hitler teaching in a class;
 - b) It will be appropriate to do the same experiment by cloning Stalin.
18. Stalin baby twelve months later is being cloned and arrives identical to Stalin.

19. He grows up and Hitler becomes his teacher. You will see us developing the relationship between the teacher and the pupil.
20. Hitler is now Stalin's teacher. He is almost 30 years older than Stalin. Stalin doesn't know who he was in the past.
21. One evening they were having a discussion walking on the beach and there was a shipwreck with some boxes. One of the boxes was sealed and they break it open with a stone. And inside it were books of them and their history and autobiographies.
22. They studied who they were carefully and decides not to tell anyone.
23. They realized they made some mistakes in their past lives and tries to find if they ever go back to these countries, how they can turn the horrors they committed around and improve their country's standing.
24. Five years later Stalin is almost 25 years old. Russia is a total mess. It is controlled by crime leaders and drugs. They made the decision to bring Stalin to Russia because they believed the people needed a strong leader and as in the past, the feared him, it was out of respect.
25. Rumors and propaganda is being created in Red Square and all over Russia that Stalin is back.
26. Stalin's helicopter lands in the middle of Red Square with hundreds of thousands of people waiting. He looks exactly the same. They cheered him and rallied around Stalin.

27. Within 4 weeks, the Red Army is back and they take over all the eastern block countries they let go through Perestroika.
28. Stalin is once again in charge. He calls on his teacher, Hitler, to come join him to run the countries and what is interesting is that they don't make the same mistakes that they did before and Russia becomes a major strong economical and military power in the world. We will be developing what he does which will be much different to what he did in the past.
